*Throughout the North Pole
there's a sound that is found.*

*No matter where you go,
the notes all resound.*

It's a delightful sound and pleasing to hear.
It immediately would dry
any child's tear.

*And it's always joyful
- never depressing or sad.*

*No matter how much you hear it,
it makes you so glad.*

*The sound that you hear is music you see,
Not just any music,
but the best that could be.*

*At Christmas time,
all hearts fill with joy.
As they wait for Santa and his bag full of toys.*

*But while they wait,
it is music they will hear,
Letting them know God is close,
with nothing to fear.*

Carol Joynote

Chief Music Coordinator

Music truly makes the world go round. And we have the best music in the world up at the North Pole. And the elf that makes all this beautiful music happen for us is Carol Joynote, our Chief Music Coordinator.

Whether working with carolers or bands, or teaching music to our younger elves, Carol puts joy into everything she does. And the result? Everyone at the North Pole is smiling and singing right along with her. Our work isn't work when we are happy and doing things we love.

The music brings out the best in us and all who hear it. It is one of the many blessings God gave us so we can praise him and all the wonderful things he has bestowed on us. So come along and join Carol as she sings and plays her way through the North Pole, and you may just be singing, too.

Santa's Message in this book states that why we all may be different, the unique things about each of us should be celebrated and not feared or hated. Every elf at the North Pole appreciates every one else and we rely on each other to perform miracles every day.
